

I and many others in my community are very much against giving LPFM stations priority over current FM translator service. For one thing, I think it goes against the 1st Amendment. Stations should have the right to broadcast in any market they choose. In the Midland/Odessa Texas area we do not have a "local station" that plays the great, positive music that Air1 plays. And since they are listener supported, it is my choice to support them and have their signal broadcasted in my area.
